THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The American First Army's counter-offensive against the northern flank of Nazi Marshal Von Rundstedt's bulge affords solid encouragement but should not lure us once more into the pleasant but dangerous fields of over-optimism.

The cold fact is that the crisis of the great German assault hasn't yet been passed. Our General Hodges' drive in the Grandenil sector—officially reported today as making good progress against stiff resistance—must be regarded as of defensive nature at this juncture.

Of course if the First Army is successful it will complement General Patton's sensational drive northward into the southern flank of the bulge and so will threaten to cut off the bulge at the base. This would enclose large German forces in a sack. However, that's merely a potentiality. The actuality is that Hodges' attack is essential for the security of the Allied line north of the bulge.

The American forces have regained the initiative about the perimeter of the bulge, but on the southern flank of the Allied line the Germans are on the offensive in the Sarrenguemines-Bitche-Lauterbourg zone and have made some progress. Their main purpose is to compel us to divert forces from other areas, and to oust us from the Saar region, but we may be sure that if they should succeed in making a breakthrough anywhere, this would be exploited to the utmost in a drive into France.

Thus on the whole Von Rundstedt, while he has lost the initiative at least temporarily on the perimeter of the bulge, still is able in considerable degree to make us dance to his fiddling. As remarked, we aren't yet out of the woods.

The probabilities are that the German commander still is looking for a soft spot on the north of the bulge through which he might make another thrust toward Liege and thence on to Antwerp. Loss of the great communications center of Liege would be a terrific blow to the Allies, and if the port of Antwerp were put out of commission it would be an awful catastrophe. I think this is one of the primary reasons for the new First Army counter-offensive—to knock out of Von Rundstedt's any notion of attempting a break through on the north.

Two-gun Patton continues to be the great hero of the bloody drama of the bulge. He is the absolute key-stone of the Allied position. Or you might say he's the monkey-wrench in the machinery of Von Rundstedt's offensive. The big salient which Patton has driven into the German southern flank about Bastogne has been the main obstacle to a fresh Nazi assault in the north towards Liege. In short the Kanke general has been carrying a lot of the bulge on his own sturdy shoulders.

Fighting about the Patton salient has been fierce, and Von Rundstedt has tacitly signalled that the American's thrusts have hurt. Latest field dispatches say the Nazi commander is bringing up strong reinforcements to the Bastogne zone.

Von Rundstedt's position within the bulge is increasingly dangerous. He is deep in enemy country and the base of his long salient is far too narrow for comfort. Moreover, communications inside the bulge are bad, so that on the whole the German general likely would find it extremely difficult even now to get his forces out of the bulge without terrible losses.

His position is doubly dangerous because of the vast weight of Allied air power which is being brought against him. Any wholesale withdrawal of armor and men certainly would encounter an annihilating deluge from the air.

HEAVY DAMAGE TO STREETS AND HIGHWAYS SEEN

Vast Amount of Patching Is Looming When Snow Melts Away

Streets, highways and paving generally have been heavily damaged in recent weeks by the freezing and thawing weather, augmented by the large application of salt to help remove the snow, according to veteran highway officials.

In Washington C. H. some of the asphalt paving in the up-town area, as well as other places, is giving way at an alarming rate, and even concrete sidewalks are crumbling in places as result of the weather.

Salt used in removing the snow is said to be very injurious to the streets, highways and even sidewalks.

"Pot holes" are appearing in some of the main streets and highways, and a vast amount of cold-mix patching has been affected by the unusual conditions. As soon as the roads are free of snow and ice, and weather permits patching, the work will be started on a large scale to prevent greatly increased damage as the freezing and thawing weather comes later in the season.

In a number of instances the snow and ice have melted, penetrated fissures in the paving and quick freezes have caused the paving to break. This is believed to be the chief reason of so much damage recently.

'HOMEWARD BOUND' SERVICE PROVIDED

Western Union Telegraph Announces New Service

The federal communications commission has approved a "homeward bound" telegraph service which will be offered by Western Union to military personnel returning from overseas. It was announced today by J. W. Yates, local manager of the telegraph company.

The new service, providing fifteen fixed text messages, will be available at certain debarkation hospitals, reception centers through which men returning from overseas will pass, and separation centers from which they will receive their final military discharges. The "homeward bound" messages may be sent at a special twenty-five cent rate from these debarkation points to any Western Union destination in the United States, one of the messages reads:

"Leaving here soon, home for good. Get my civilian clothes ready. Love."

Yates stated that the "homeward bound" service will provide the first domestic fixed-text telegrams offered since the discontinuance of fixed-text greeting messages in 1942. This service at a special rate for the armed forces, he said, is commensurate with the importance of the message.

His position is doubly dangerous because of the vast weight of Allied air power which is being brought against him. Any wholesale withdrawal of armor and men certainly would encounter an annihilating deluge from the air.

What 1945 Means
Prospects and perspectives change for all of us. The measure of our character and courage is the demonstration of our ability to meet conditions which arise and which may be different than we had planned upon.
Not more than five months ago it seemed that we should soon be able to turn our whole strength against Japan since Germany appeared on the edge of a knockout. Two months ago it began to look like, as soon as election was over, we could set about with hope and enthusiasm to build a permanent structure for peace and begin reconversion while finishing off the Japanese war.
Today we know that 1945 will be a year of hard tasks and fatal actions. We shall suffer somewhat from the summer spree of over-confidence and relaxation, but now at least we know that we are still fighting bitterly with two desperate enemies whose strength and determination are by no means exhausted.

This year is likely to bring the heaviest casualties that Americans have suffered in any year of any war.
It will be a year of diligence for all of us here at home. We shall have to guard against impatience and discouragement and war weariness. We shall have to prove to ourselves and to the men who are fighting the war that we can take it.
From our government, 1945 will ask a wiser and more vigorous world leadership than has ever been required heretofore. For the President and the military leaders the year will bring more days of imperative decisions. From the new congress it will demand a selfless, partyless patriotism that must guide against action fatal to world peace.

But this is also a year of hope. The first day of 1942 found the country almost too stunned by the preceding 24 days to realize its peril. Two years ago the road from Africa to Berlin and from Guadalcanal to Tokyo seemed endless. Last year the great gamble of D-Day lay in the doubtful future.

Great strides can be taken in 1945. We have a superior military force with superior leadership. We have the confidence of most of the world's peoples as the guarantors of freedom and fair dealings. We have the potentialities of still greater strength to throw into the battles for victory and peace.

These are responsibilities as well as resources. To use them fully and wisely is a job that calls for conscious, increased effort by all of us—from President and General to housewife and school boy. What Americans do in 1945 will have profound effect on the shape of things to come.

The Rubber Shortage
According to an informed writer, 1944 was the great year of accomplishment in the field of synthetic rubber. The most widely used GR-S, which is "75 percent butadiene, 25 percent styrene" with a small amount of other ingredients, has proved 90 to 95 percent as good as natural rubber, and is being turned out in great quantities. Why then, people ask, are there not more tires?

The answer is the same old bottleneck—manpower. There is no hitch in the chemical or the engineering procedures. These are standardized and ready to go. But the manpower shortage, already so acute in other manufacturing fields, affects synthetic rubber both directly, in the plants themselves, and indirectly. It extends back into the cotton mills, the rayon factories and the carbon black industry. Without any of these materials, the synthetic tires cannot be made.

After the war, with manpower once more relatively plentiful, there will be synthetic aplenty for everyone. Now, when almost every factory has a few machines or looms silent for lack of workers, the new tires must go to keep supply lines, jeeps and combat vehicles in action over rough terrain.

No Quick Peace
However tough it may have been on the war front the past year, it cannot be said that the home front has suffered unduly. That is, for "creature comforts" and the necessities of life. Many things midway between comfort and necessity have been rather difficult to get at times; but on the whole, the American level of living has been the envy of nearly all foreign nations. And large numbers of Americans have been able, even in war time, to get ahead financially more rapidly than usual. This is shown by bank savings and investments, which in the long run are more important than present luxury.

What is the prospect now for business in general? The new energy shown by the Germans is generally regarded as postponing for many months the expected collapse of the Nazi war effort. It is a time, therefore, not for ardent expectations of an early victory but for settling down to a still more earnest prosecution of the big job at home and abroad.

Washington at a Glance By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—Your capital in wartime:
Washington, not Hollywood, may eventually become the greatest storehouse of movie films in the world, but the chances are that in it you will never find Frank Sinatra singing a song while draped in a tuxedo, or Dorothy Lamour draping a sarong in ways that South Sea belles never dreamed of.

The idea is to build a $3,000,000 storehouse for non-current films of all the government agencies—including the Army and Navy. If the proposal of the Federal Works Administration is carried out, the storehouse for old films would be in Suburban Suitland, Md., would cover seven acres, would have its own screening rooms where historians, biographers, scientists, etc., of tomorrow could study at first hand the pictorial and vocal recordings of today.

John G. Bradley, chief of the motion picture and sound recordings division of National Archives, estimate that there are now more than 300,000,000 feet of valuable government film in existence. About 75

Love, therefore, labor; if thou shouldst not want it for food, thou mayest for physic. It is wholesome to the body and good for the mind; it prevents the fruit of idleness.—Penn.
Hints on Etiquette
A late comer to a formal dinner is not served the first course of which the other guests have partaken. He is served what the others are eating when he arrives.
Today's Horoscope
You are naturally energetic, and you occupy yourself with many things, at the same time taking pleasure in seeing them well done. You are shrewd in your judgment of people, and through these precise judgments should win success in business operations. Today's helpful Venus influences may bring you interesting news and opportunities for increased profits and social advancement. Marshal your ideas quietly, as an unhurried attitude will mean fewer mistakes. Curb any extravagances.

ROMANTIC MASQUERADE
by MARIE BLIZARD
CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
The ringing, the siren scream. She would hear it forever, cutting knife-like, and she thought if she could open her eyes, the pain would be over, but she knew she'd see the cold face of the young French doctor above her, so Daphne kept them closed.
"Francis! Francis!" she cried, knowing that Francis was good, that she was there in the ambulance with her—Francis, who had found her there alone in her agony when she came down to buy her morning rolls. Francis, who thought Paris was fun, saying, "Something happened here in the pension last night. We heard a terrible scream. . . . Where is your husband, dear?"
Daphne bit her lips to keep back the screams, to keep from telling her new friend and then, far away, she heard someone screaming and woke suddenly as the surgeon shook her.
"Wake up, ma'am, you're having a bad dream," Mrs. Gates said.
Daphne came out of her dream slowly and pushed her hair back from her forehead. Her hand came away moist, her body was still trembling. She drank the tea Mrs. Gates had brought and that helped a little.
"Must have been the oysters you ate last night."
Oysters? No, Daphne knew why she had had the old dream—horrid memory of her life in Paris—and she asked at once, "Have you heard from Dr. Fenwick?"
"No, ma'am, but your car is in the drive. I heard it come in about six this morning."
Daphne got up and dressed hurriedly.
"You got a nutrition class at ten, Miss Daphne."
"I know; I'll be there until noon. I don't know when I'll be back. Mrs. Romero was taken seriously ill last night. I'll go around to see her after class. I hope I'll not be too late."
But she was.
Daphne had barely time to get to class, and no time to call Kate until it was over.
Kate said, "She died, Daphne. . . . No, I wasn't there. I stayed until midnight. Minnie was there when I left. My Tommy has the measles and I was worried about his temperature. . . . Minnie called me this morning, said she'd left the doctor with Mrs. Romero. He sent her home about four. The grocery boy told me Mrs. Romero died. He'd seen the undertaker's wagon there."
"Where is the child?"
"Minnie must have taken him home."
But Minnie hadn't taken him home. "I was so worn out," she said, "I just forgot all about him. He was asleep on a couch and I was all in myself. Dr. Fenwick insisted that I . . ."
"Oh, Minnie!" Daphne all but groaned into the telephone. "That baby must be somewhere. Who'd take him?"
"I don't know," Minnie answered in the tone of a woman pressed too far, "My Hortense has the measles. There's an epidemic."
"I'll do something about it," cut in Daphne as she hung up the receiver.
No one in the neighborhood where the dead woman had lived could give her any information. The undertaker said that when he went to the house after Dr. Fenwick called him, he had seen no child there.
Daphne was conscious of feeling faint. Her heart was heavy indeed when she went up the steps of her house. And tripped over a tiny red fire-engine.
She picked it up and the lump rose from her breast to her throat. For a moment she didn't notice that it was Steve who opened the door. She held the toy out.
"Where did this come from?"
"He brought it with him, I guess."
"Here?" Daphne went into the living-room, looking for a small figure.
"Mrs. Gates has put him to bed. Poor little chap!"
"I . . . I didn't find out until noon," said Daphne. "I've been looking for him everywhere."
"I knew you would."
She gave him a surprised glance.
"That's why I brought him here. I haven't much of a home for a youngster. Anyway he needs you. He knows his mother is dead."
Daphne went to the mantle, fighting for self-control, telling herself there was no reason for her to get sloppily emotional. A sick woman's suffering had come to an end. Thousands of people were dying daily.
After a little while, she turned and said, "You were quite right to bring him here. I would have done it myself. I have a plan for him. The Andersons would be glad to give him a good home, to board him. I'll be glad to see to the financial end of it—and the funeral, of course. I . . . it won't be anything."
"Not as much as you've been doing for months," observed Steve. "I saw McIntosh recently. Your anonymity has not been preserved, Daphne. But he knows, and Mrs. Denison knows, how generous you've been."
"That's very nice of you, but don't squander credit where it isn't due. Giving that small sum weekly was no sacrifice. I have enough money for that."
"Enough money," he murmured thoughtfully.
"Of course," she said airily. "I live simply."
"And you have everything you want?" His tone was more casual than his searching glance.
"What more could I want?" she parried.
"I can't tell you, but I can suggest an experiment. Forget about Mrs. Anderson. The boy will be waking up in a little while. Take his supper to him."
Her mind pictured the vast grief of a small boy. "I'll do that," she agreed. "I'll tell him a story. But, Steve, tomorrow I'll send for Mrs. Anderson."
"No. Be with him every day for a little while—just you, no one else," he urged.
Daphne had risen and began to walk the floor. Now she turned and said, "Perhaps you think that, once I've felt his arms round my neck, I won't let him go!" She was trembling violently.
"No," he said after a moment. "Come and sit here beside me. I want to talk to you—as your friend, and as a doctor."
She sat down on the lounge and tried to withdraw her eyes from his searching glance as Steve began, "What are you afraid of? There's something in your inner self that hurts you. I know your simulated lack of sympathy is nothing more than a scab to protect a wound. A physician knows, and you should, that a wound isn't healed until the scab is gone. I want to help you."
"Yes," Daphne admitted, moistening her dry lips. "I'm afraid to take the child into my life. I . . . I don't know anything about children . . . about toys."
"Many a boy and girl has grown to fine maturity having a good woman for a stepmother."
Daphne's eyes filled with pain. "You think I'd make a good stepmother?"
"I know you will."
Her eyes fastened on a patch of wintry sunlight on the carpet and she began to speak slowly: "You think things that other people do. The legend is always the same: Daphne Wiloughby, scatter-brained, selfish, romantic, who ran away and married a concert violinist and led a gay life in Europe until her husband died. Daphne Wiloughby who lived only for herself, who had a brilliant career, who inherited a fortune and came back to continue her useless, selfish life."
"That's a twisted version of your . . . legend, and it's not all I know," commented Steve.
"But that legend's largely false!" declared Daphne. "The letters I used to write, and the things I told you Thanksgiving night are just imagination and vanity combined. Fiction, Steve, nearly all of it! I've led no gay, abandoned life of luxury, but I've been selfish for all of that. I wanted—just wanted. Don't ask me to tell you what."
"Don't. Not if you don't want to." "I have to—now," Daphne said, then went into details.
"I wanted LIFE to be in capitals, to be romantic. I ran away and broke my father's heart because I hoped to find LIFE that way. I married a man who could give me what I wanted, I thought. I got what I deserved—squalor and shame! Carlo was no concert artist. He was . . . I can't tell you all . . . liquor and drugs . . . petty thievery . . . cheating. I'm guilty, because I didn't leave him. Do you wonder why?"
The pressure of Steve's hand on hers was his only answer.

HAD FRONT SEAT FOR BIG SCRAP IN PHILIPPINES

Ensign Geo. E. Blackmore Nearly Loses Life When Ship Hit

Ensign George E. Blackmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Blackmore who literally had a front seat in the big naval engagement off Leyte Island in the Philippines in October, when the Jap fleet was shattered, is home for a short time before leaving for duty as an engineer in the Panama Canal zone.

Ensign Blackmore was wounded in the battle when a Jap bomb struck his tanker and exploded in the engine room.

"I got a piece of shrapnel between the bones of my right arm below the elbow and was knocked unconscious for two days," said Blackmore in mentioning his experiences.

Blackmore's lungs were nearly collapsed by the terrific blast and he was otherwise injured, but after sometime in a hospital, he was sent home for reassignment.

During the naval engagement in which the American fleet speedily blasted most of the Jap fleet, he saw three Jap ships blown up by direct hits and they went to the bottom in short order.

"It was the sight of a lifetime and I only wish I could have had a movie camera and got pictures of it," said Blackmore, who spoke of the expert gunnery of the American warship crews and the notable work of the bombers.

Blackmore has been in every war zone during the two years he has been in service, including the big show in North Africa, Italy and then in the Southwest Pacific.

During the two weeks he is here Blackmore is very anxious to get a job until time for him to leave for the Canal Zone.

"I want to work and keep my mind busy," he said.

With a Buckeye In Congress...

By CLARENCE J. BROWN
Member of Congress, 7th Ohio District

The bureaucrats in the Office of Price Administration gave the housewives of America a long to be remembered Christmas gift by announcing resumption of rationing on many meats and canned foods effective at midnight Christmas Day, with all red and blue stamps issued prior to the first of December declared null and void in spite of previous assurances such stamps would be good indefinitely. Rationing of the items covered had been suspended September 17th, last. At that time it was openly charged by many members of Congress and predicted in this column that the rationing restrictions were being lifted for political purposes, and that stricter rationing would come again soon after the election. The facts are that OPA officials wished to make the new rationing restrictions effective December 1st but were instructed by higher-ups to delay action a month. There is just as much food available today as there was in September. Either the food items concerned should not have been taken off restriction before the election, or they should not be placed back under rationing at this time. However, the greatest blunder made by OPA was in voiding ration stamps issued before December 1st. Housewives were assured such stamps would be good indefinitely and urged not to buy ration foods except as absolutely needed. The ones who ignored the OPA requests and bought their food regularly are the gainers, while those who trusted the word of the government agency have been made to suffer. Unquestionably most housewives will not place much credence in future OPA announcements, and will use their ration coupons as they become valid. Incidentally, OPA late last week refused to give assurances the present stamps, now valid, will be good after March 1st.

To justify the imposition of much stricter food rationing (which some charge has been done to take the public mind off war losses) WFA and OPA officials are putting out numerous statements to the effect that a shortage in food is at hand, including pork products. So perhaps it might be well to point out that in 1944 America produced more food than at any time in our entire history, even surpassing the record-breaking crop year of 1942. It will also be remembered that just a few months ago farmers were unable to dispose of their hogs. (Less than ninety days ago we had to wait more than a week before we could market hogs from our own farm, due, we were told, to glutted market conditions.) As a result of this situation War Food Administration officials called upon the farmers of the nation to reduce their hog production. Now we are being told there is a shortage of pork. We still insist, folks, it just simply does not make sense

Recent reverses and heavy losses on the Western Front have resulted in a big increase in the number of men scheduled to be inducted into the armed forces under Selective Service during the next three or four months. Only the most essential workers under the age of twenty-five will be deferred from military service. Tens of thousands of young men in the twenty-six to thirty age bracket will be taken, while many between the ages of thirty and thirty-seven can expect to be called. Army casualties—the reports of which had been held up prior to Christmas—were made available two days later and show an increase of some sixty-three thousand in the two weeks ending December 14th. Total army casualties up to that date were 547,823, which included 102,961 killed, 65,762 wounded, and 59,165 prisoners of war. Navy casualties total 80,618, including 31,182 killed, 9,010 missing in action, 35,942 wounded, and 4,484 prisoners of war—a grand total casualty list of 628,441. This total does not include any of the casualties suffered as a result of the German breakthrough on the Western Front, or from the terrific battle that has been waged in Europe since.

With more and more stories of waste, extravagance and downright scandal coming to light in connection with the Lend-Lease program, it is being rumored that the administration policy makers are working out a plan to drop the name "Lend-Lease", and change the program over so it may be used after the war to set nations up in business with American finance, equipment and goods on what would be practically a gift basis. A propaganda campaign will soon be started to convince the American people it is just as necessary to place Great Britain, Russia, China and the liberated countries back on a sound economic, trade and financial basis as it was to help them defeat Germany. Once the "planners" are finished with this project, perhaps they can devote a little time to figuring a way to pay off the

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passage with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Now that everyone is wondering what has become of the Atlantic Charter, whether it does or does not exist, was or was not signed, and what it does or does not mean, perhaps it may be well to also inquire what has become of the commander-in-chief. Long in September and October we were hearing a lot about the commander-in-chief and how he helped plan all military strategy, but during the past three or four weeks, when things have not been going so well on the battle lines, the commander-in-chief seems to have dropped from the news. There is an old adage that those who take the credit must also accept the responsibility.

President Roosevelt is our most traveled president by far. A White House correspondent just pointed out that in 1944 President Roosevelt was away from the White House twenty-four out of the fifty-two weeks of the year. A portion of that time was, of course, spent in attending conferences in Canada and in the Pacific area—but the whereabouts of the president the rest of the time still remain a secret. Perhaps when the war is over the story of his travels will be made public.

FARM CENSUS IS TO BEGIN HERE WITHIN 2 WEEKS

Five Questioners Will Take To County Roads To Learn All

Five Fayette countians will be among approximately 26,000 questioners who will take to the county roads within the next two weeks to check the resources and productivity of Ohio farms in wartime.

They are: Charles C. Garringer, Perry and Wayne Townships; W. H. Icenhower, Union Township; Nellie Chaney, Paint Township; and Virtus Kruse, Concord and Green Townships.

Each will attend a three day school in Wilmington before they begin to take the 1945 agricultural census. Within two months they will have detailed information on crops, livestock and the farm labor situation.

The Census Bureau, Department of Commerce, Department of Agriculture, War Food Administration and Farm Group representatives have worked together to compile simple but comprehensive questions in its nationwide survey.

Entries of farms as a whole will be logged instead of individual farms as in past censuses. Only questions concerning crops in an immediate neighborhood will be asked.

The country has been broken down into seven regions, based on their crop production. Ohio, in region 2 (northeastern U. S.) has been further divided into seven districts with officers in Lima, Findlay, Ravenna, Lebanon, Coshocton, Zanesville and Portsmouth.

The Ohio area manager is Arlington L. Korn of Sidney.

Sabina Ensign Weds Girl in Los Angeles

The Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale, Calif., was the impressive setting for the marriage of Miss Helen Elaine Ulrich, of Los Angeles, Calif., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin S. Ulrich, of Grand Island, Neb., to Ensign Vernon E. Morris, of the U. S. Naval Air Force, son of and Mrs. Earl Morris, of Sabina, Saturday, December 16 at 5:30 P.M.

Soft candlelight, which illuminated the altar, was accentuated with a beautiful array of flowers, growing permanently inside this quaint church. Dr. William Schaffer was the officiating clergyman at the double ring ceremony which was witnessed by 75 close friends and relatives, including the entire 97th Squadron, of which the bridegroom is a member, and Mrs. Earl Morris and Miss Jean Morris, mother and sister of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's best man was Ensign Allen Wyres, of New Orleans, La., and the ushers, who preceded the bride and her attendant down the aisle, were Ensigns Donald Anderson, of Glenview, Ill., and Frederick T. Delaney, of Boston, Mass.

Miss Francille Hatcher, of Los Angeles, was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a picturesque gown of peach lace, fashioned with a slim bodice and flowing skirt. She carried a bouquet of blue delphiniums.

Entering on the arm of her father, the bride wore a gown of cream-colored satin with a long-sleeved bodice and bouffant skirt ending in a short train. The off-the-shoulder neckline was filled with delicate gold net and her sweetheart veil of tulle was held to her head with a tarsi of shirred lace. She carried an heirloom prayer book, topped with a cluster of white orchids, from which fell a graceful spray of stephanotis and satin ribbon.

Immediately following the ceremony, after the happy young couple had been showered with rose petals, a reception was held in the Palm Room of the Hotel Glendale for the 75 guests who attended the wedding.

The bride and bridegroom are now in residence at Twenty-nine Palms, Calif., where Ensign Morris is stationed.

Church Day Program One of Unusual Interest

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met for the first meeting of the new year on Wednesday, beginning at eleven o'clock and Mrs. Mabel Blessing opened the morning session by playing several beautiful hymns on the piano. Mrs. Annetta Rowe gave devotionals, using the year's theme, "The Open Door."

Then the circle leaders for the past year gave a brief resume of their work, a year which has been very successful and inspiring. After the president, Mrs. Rose Hughey gave a noontide prayer, the usual covered dish luncheon was served in the church dining room.

Mrs. Mabel Blessing and Mrs. Arch Riber were in charge of the program for the day, and used the year's theme. A stereoscopic lecture was given and Mrs. Jean Nisley showed the beautiful colored slides. Three illustrated songs were in keeping with the lecture: "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," "The Ninety and Nine," and "America, the Beautiful."

The first lecture was entitled "The Book Goes Forth," and the slides gave a vivid picture of the many countries, various nationalities and types of people to whom the Bible is made available. The Bible is the supreme book of the ages and appeals to a wide variety of persons. It is estimated some 200 countries receive the Bible by various methods.

The second lecture showed the work of the Goodwill Industries. The colored slides were narrated by Mrs. Riber who showed the origin and accomplishments of this organization is one of rehabilitation for physically afflicted people and persons who would otherwise be dependent on charity. There are a large number of these Goodwill Industries located in various sections of this country and a few in foreign countries. The handicapped people are given the advantages of making a living and also access to a religious life.

The affair was attended by members of the family who assembled at the Minnick's former country home, "Homeacres" near Derby, where Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vincent, their daughter and son-in-law now reside.

During Sunday afternoon and evening, around sixty persons attended the open house at which Mr. and Mrs. Minnick were a congenial host and hostess. The prettily-appointed tea table was centered with a bouquet of yellow tea roses, a gift of Pvt. and Mrs. H. Robert Vincent of Kingman, Arizona. Pvt. Vincent is the only grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Minnick.

Assisting hostesses during the open house were Miss Jessie Spellman of Huntington, W. Va., Mrs. Ruth Williams of Dayton, and Mrs. Tom Kirkpatrick of New Holland.

Woman's Guild Meeting Is Held On Wednesday

Despite the inclemency of the weather on Wednesday a nice percentage of members of the Woman's Guild of the First Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. O. D. Farquhar for the regular meeting, and for the occasion Mrs. Farquhar had decorated her home most attractively.

Following an hour of informal visiting and congenialities, the president, Mrs. Herbert Clickner, called the meeting to order. In the absence of Mrs. Staubus, the hostess gave devotionals, first reading scripture and closing with several appropriate articles relative to the scripture passages read.

During the course of the business meeting it was announced the Guild members are to meet at the church at nine-thirty o'clock on January twenty-fourth at which time they will clean the church kitchen. Members are asked to bring sandwiches for the noon meal.

The social hour was then led by Mrs. Farquhar who was assisted by a group of members in serving delicious cake, coffee and nuts. Those assisting her were Mrs. P. C. Harlow, Mrs. C. M. Edwards, Mrs. I. L. Pumphrey, Mrs. C. N. Baer, Mrs. S. R. Parrett, Mrs. W. O. Beatty, Mrs. J. A. Hyer, Mrs. P. L. Smeltzer, Mrs. Grace Goodwin, Mrs. W. C. Allen, Mrs. Rollo Marchant, Mrs. Martin Hamm, Mrs. Charles Hire, Mrs. H. E. Rosebaum and Mrs. George Schiller.

Mrs. O. E. Miller, of Louisville, Ky., was included with the members as a guest.

PRIVATE AIRPORT IS BEING DEVELOPED NEAR HERE

FLYING SCHOOL ONE FEATURE OF EXPANSION PLAN

Planes Already in Use for Emergency Service and Lessons Being Given

The beginnings of an airport near New Holland which may serve Washington C. H. until one may be built here have passed far more than the embryonic stages.

In fact, expansion plans for the spring will pull the port from childhood into adolescence with lengthening of runways and supplanting the present temporary hangars with modern and permanent ones.

Where is this airport? Within less than half an hour's driving distance from Washington C. H.—just three miles east of New Holland. To get there, turn to the right at the first road east of New Holland off route 22.

Right now the airport is offering flying instruction and charter service, B. L. Kay, business manager, says. Kay, himself a pilot, is a flying enthusiast as is the personnel at the airport.

Roy Plumm, airport manager, is a pilot who tied his flying and farming together profitably. Reed Cory, who was a lieutenant (jg) in the Navy, is a commercial pilot with over 3,200 hours in the air. Marvin Williams, assistant manager of the API who formerly lived in Detroit, is connected with the airport in an advisory capacity. Robert Swift, formerly manager of the Athens Airport, is the instructor. Swift also was an instructor at the Spartan School of Aeronautics.

It all began when Kay and Plumm, in whose heads the idea of an airport had long been forming, asked the federal government to designate their flying field as a bona fide airport.

Now under the jurisdiction of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, the airport has enough licensed aircraft to take care of some 21 students. An Aerona tandem and two Taylor-craft are always at the field. Also at the disposal of the field is a plane with equipment for flying on a radio beam or instruments by night.

At present, the primary concern is teaching tyros to fly, charter service and renting aircraft for flying after the solo course is completed.

"The day of the dare-devil flier is over," Kay declared. He listed doctors, lawyers, factory workers, mechanics and teachers as among the students now taking lessons. They come from Circleville, Washington C. H. and Chillicothe.

However, Kay's vision does not stop with the present concerns of the airfield. Even now, aircraft from other places are using the field and in the future, when the promised no-spin, no nose-dive, foolproof aircraft go on mass production, visiting businessmen will be able to land as casually as they park automobiles now.

While gasoline admittedly is not easy to get, a storage tank on the airport provides ample fuel for flying instruction. Cutting capers in the air and sight seeing flying are taboo, however.

Another service offered by the airport is fast transportation for manufacturers and farmers who need repair parts or material quickly. Planes are dispatched to get the parts and bring them back at what Kay terms "an unbelievably low cost."

Kay, who for the past two years has been employed at the API, has kept only an advisory interest in his businesses—a hatchery and greenhouse in Greenfield and the Kay Farms—and devotes all his time to defense work and the airport.

"I believe the airport is the hub for future airports and aviation enterprise in this community and that an airport for Wash-hit. I was in a daze for two days and everyone says I did big stuff in those two days. They put me in for a silver star."

Bernie used to be an amateur boxer. Now he moves up with the infantry, wearing two Red Cross arm bands and aid pouches over his shoulder—but no rifle.

Once he set up a forward aid station by himself in a captured enemy pillbox and for 24 hours ran a one-man hospital under fire.

He hates snipers. "Look," he says, "once I bent down to fix up a guy who got hit while we were marching down a road. The sniper's still around. He don't try to hit me; just near misses. Lots of 'em. I got so damn mad I stood up and challenged him to come down and fight like a man. That made all the guys laugh. Helped their morale. But I never got hit!"

Bernie wears the Bronze Star for gallantry. His buddies particularly remember the time he stumbled forward for a mile at night under steady mortar and artillery fire with two other medics to bring back their wounded and isolated battalion commander.

"That you, Battling?" the officer asked, when they reached him.

This is Bernie's version of the trip back under fire:

"First we put him on a litter. He said 'I'm cold, Battling.' What the hell, he's lost a lot of blood. No wonder he's cold. I ain't lost any blood and I'm cold, too. While we were carrying him, all kinds of stuff is dropping close by."

"Once or twice I'd say, 'Sorry, Colonel, we gotta drop you.' We do and dive. He's calm—don't get excited. He's a soldier. We never drop him with a bang, always gentle. Finally, we make it back."

"By that time they got plasma and everything ready and they fix him up. He's still saying, 'I'm so cold.' So I give up my field jacket and now I'm cold as hell. But I get me a jacket off a patient I lug in. He don't need it no more. It's nothing—stuff like that goes on all the time."

LIGHTER SIDE OF WAR IN GERMANY, Dec. 28—(Delayed)—(P)—Hiding in a small village overrun by German tanks, Pfc. Dal L. Phelps of Lytle, Tex., decided he'd better jettison his Nazi souvenirs and make himself a set of army dogtags.

"I heard about those Germans making it tough on prisoners having Nazi stuff so I sure wasn't going to get caught with any of it on me," he grinned.

He stuffed 40 German marks in a pocket.

Kay said in summing up the purpose of the tri-county field.

down the drain and tossed away a handful of German coins. He hid a German cap insignia and a billfold made from a German pack.

"I had lost my dogtags and couldn't find a single thing to identify me," he said, "so I quickly made a pair out of cardboard. I didn't know but what they might accuse me of being a spy."

His preparations were for nothing.

After hiding eight hours, he was able to rejoin American troops.

After the Nazis left town Pfc. Glen H. Walker of Felsenthal, Ark., wanted some fresh potatoes and began digging them in a field near the position of his anti-tank gun.

He noticed one potato was considerably heavier than the others. Scraping off the mud, he found he was holding a German anti-personnel mine. He carefully set the mine back in its hole and then, with the bag of potatoes slung over his shoulders, tiptoed out of the minefield.

The Germans attacked under cover of night. Pvt. Otis Stacker of Ralls, Tex., was alone in his foxhole. He threw his fire toward an enemy he could not see.

Sometime later he still was busy trying to pin down the invisible foe when he felt a tap on his back. He turned and saw his squad leader, S-Sgt. Lead

A. O'Shield of Hollywood, Cal., who had crawled over to his foxhole.

"Enjoying yourself?" asked the sergeant.

Stacker nodded, then fired another clip.

"Well, I hate to spoil your fun," said O'Shield, "but maybe you'd better ease up here for awhile. The attack was over five minutes ago and the rest of us are trying to get some sleep."

Lions To Play Wilmington Here Friday

Barring another blizzard or more ice, the Blue Lions of WHS will tangle with the cagers from Wilmington on the high school floor here Friday night.

It will be their fourth SCO game. They won the first from Hillsboro, but lost the others to Chillicothe and Circleville.

On the basis of past performances by both teams, the outcome of the Lion-Hurricane game would appear to be a toss-up. The Lions beat Hillsboro in the last minute of play by three scant points after the Indians had wiped out a long early lead to tie the score just before the end of the game. The Indians, two weeks later, beat the Wilmington boys but the score was so close that it was obvious that the three teams are too evenly matched to pick a favorite.

The Lions have not played a game since December 19—nearly three weeks ago. Whether the layoff was a help or hindrance may show up in Friday night's game here. The game that was to have been played with Dayton Stivers last Friday, as well as the reserve team's preliminary with Clarksburg, had to be called off because of snow choked and icy roads.

But, the holidays have brought no holiday to either the varsity or reserve squads. They have been practicing faithfully every day.

The varsity will be prepared to use either the zone or man-to-man style of defense against the Hurricanes, Coach J. R. Brammer revealed. While he did not elaborate, he left the impression that the Lion defense would be determined by the Wilmington offense and that it would be subject to change on short notice. The boys have been going through some rather strenuous workouts during the first three days of the week with emphasis being placed on ball handling and passing, according to reports that have leaked out from behind the closed doors that hide the practice sessions. Basket shooting was scheduled for Thursday's drill. Brammer explained he did not like to give the boys too much hard work at the last session before a game.

The coach inferred that considerable progress had been made in smoothing out the team's execution of plays and polishing its passing system when he declared he was now "getting a chance to give the boys more individual attention." He said this applied particularly to basket shooting methods and that if successful, it should account for more scores.

Admitting that the Lions have not been getting their share of the rebounds off the back board, Brammer indicated this would be given more and more attention. "They should get from three to five shots," he said and added somewhat ruefully that "they have been taking a shot and if it didn't go through that was the end."

There is no doubt in the mind of the coach that the Lions are improving. He said so without qualifications. He explained:

ONE-ARMED BASEBALL PLAYER WINS SPORTSMANSHIP AWARD AS INSPIRATION TO VETERANS

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Pete Gray, one-armed outfielder who won a major league berth, was announced today as the winner of the Spokane Athletic Round Table's Sixth Annual Sportsmanship Award.

The Spokane group which sponsors stunts like "bundles for Congress" and then turns serious at intervals to help advance sports said Gray would be awarded a $1,000 War Bond at a fitting ceremony.

Gray was picked on the basis of nominations by sports editors of the nation.

Virgil Warren, chairman of the award committee, said Bob Ritter of the Progress Bulletin of Pomona, Calif., summed up the feelings of fellow writers with the comment that Gray "must be the symbol of returning wounded veterans who have lost the services of a limb. His inspiration will no doubt speed many of them on their way to useful lives again, despite handicaps. There is no second choice."

Gray, one-armed outfielder for the Memphis Chickies, was signed last fall by the St. Louis Browns and will join them in spring training.

2 OUT OF 3 IS RULE IN API LEAGUE

The Owls and the Aeronauts set out to see just which team was the better and the Owls settled it by winning two out of three, a pattern all API women followed. They took the first two without much trouble but backed up in the last contest when the Aeronauts took over.

It was a see-saw evening for the Bombers and the Gliders but the Bombers managed to stay up most of the time by winning the end games. The middle one went on the Gliders' shelf.

The Helicopters and the Flying Fortresses wound up with the Forts getting the big end of the deal. The Helicopters won the first game but it didn't last for the Forts let go a bombardment of strikes and spares which cinched the last two.

The Gremlins were on the ball when they met the P-38's. The P-38's nipped in for one win—by a six point margin—but the Gremlins turned on for a couple of victories to add to their list.

Ohio's Bucks Win From Wyoming in Rough Game, 44-36

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes squeaked a second half University of Wyoming rally to win, 44 to 36 last night in a rough and tumble game. It was State's fifth win in seven starts.

Ahead 18 to 14 at the half, the Bucks had to fight off an uprising led by six-foot-nine-inch George Nostrand, Wyoming center, who put the Cowboys ahead 19 to 18 early in the third period.

The lead then changed four times and with the score tied up at 29-all, Paul Huston put Ohio State ahead to stay with an under the basket shot. Nostrand scored 15 of his 20 points in the wild second half before being ejected on fouls.

to mount two cannons and has a cruising range of about 1,000 miles. Berlin declares a new portable rocket machine, strapped to one man and firing effectively over a 400-yard range, was used in the Von Rundstedt offensive.

The Nazis are studying constantly Allied propaganda, military policy and political maneuvering, especially in Greece, Belgium and France.

This is what non-German friends who have been on the spot say.

The Nazis believe the political upheavals in Greece and Belgium and the still uncertain political situation in France have done much to convince the Germans their best chance is to keep fighting, and that as the Allies involve themselves in more bickering a compromise will become more welcome.

These sources say the Germans who might be tempted to revolt or offer passive resistance are disheartened by Allied propaganda, because they are able to find errors.

As an example, one informant said that on one day 800 Allied planes bombed and heavily damaged a factory outside Berlin. The Allied radio subsequently claimed the factory was put out of business.

"Out of business?" queried German employees. "It has been six months underground. The bombing accomplished nothing."

STIMSON'S VIEW

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today the Germans still hold enough power to launch another, though smaller, offensive on the western front.

The Germans, he told his weekly news conference, are a "tough, disciplined enemy," and will "never rest on a passive defense."

The secretary asserted, "Having made his gamble, the enemy is not yet pulling out. . . . On the contrary, he has dug in at certain points on the perimeter of the salient and maintains enough troops in the center to threaten another push."

From the beginning of the German attack on December 16 through December 30, 22,430 German prisoners were taken, Stimson said.

He added that a preliminary field report shows our tank losses were only 6 percent greater than the expected monthly attrition rate for armor during the German counter drive.

Stimson said he saw a "close relationship" in developments on the western front to affairs on the Italian front and German prospects in the east.

In the Philippines, the Japanese power to strike retaliatory blows "is still lively," he said, because they have on Luzon and elsewhere many troops and planes to invest.

"They are developing more endurance and can play harder and faster longer than they could at the start of the season. They're coming along slowly, but that's the way of it, for the tourney (the season-end battle for district and state honors) is the big thing. I would rather see them get better than have them start out by winning every game and then fade out."

Of the game with Wilmington, Coach Brammer made no predictions. He did say, however, that "we'll have to watch Daniel and Copeland and if we can stop them like Hillsboro did, we'll get along all right."

OHIO PAY BOOST BILL PASSED BY LEGISLATURE BEFORE LAUSCHE COMES

June 24, 1943, the base for the raises. The most additional compensation which any employee can receive is $900 a year.

The future of a supplemental bill appropriating $2,950,000 as a bonus to persons employed by the state during the last six months of last summer was beclouded.

With the legislature going home today, there was no possibility for the bill being passed before Gov.-elect Frank J. Lausche takes office Monday. He has expressed opposition to it.

The partial appropriation bill with the salary increases contains $3,838,603 for operation of the state government during the first six months of the year.

It also includes $21,750,000 for aid for the aged benefits; $15,000,000 for poor relief and $6,000,000 for local government subsidies.

north of the Philippines. Okinawa, in the Ryukyu chain, is 160 miles northeast of Formosa and 300 miles southwest of Japan.

Bomb-cratered Nagoya, Japan's third largest city, was smoldering today from a smashing daylight assault by mighty Superfortresses. The Saipan-based B-29s kindled large fires and attained good results, the War Department announced, when they ripped into Nagoya yesterday for the fourth time.

One Superfortress was lost to enemy action in the target area. The planes of the 21st Bomber Command bagged one enemy interceptor, probably brought down nine more and damaged others.

A dispatch from Associated Press war correspondent, Vern Haugland at Guam, said the aerial task force was of sizeable strength, indicating up to 100 planes participated. Tokyo said 90 B-29s made the raid.

The War Department announced said fighter opposition was moderate. Anti-aircraft fire was described as "meager and inaccurate."

On their last thundering strike against Nagoya on December 22, the monster bombers encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire and a horde of defending fighter planes. Aircraft factories and other war installations were hit on this raid. The targets of yesterday's assault were not announced.

Nagoya, 165 miles west of Tokyo, is the principal spawning grounds for Japanese aircraft.

U. S. bombers sweeping the entire western waters of Luzon Island, MacArthur's ultimate goal in the Philippines, sank or left in flames 25 Japanese ships—a large transport, 22 freighters and two trawlers.

Marine fighters swept Luzon installations near Mindoro while Liberators and fighters struck at Luzon's Clark Field.

PT boats sank five Japanese vessels in inland Philippine waters where Tokyo said suicide planes were attacking the Third U. S. convoy spotted heading to

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Largely buying interest, profit cashing and a weaker cash corn market caused grain futures prices to break sharply today but some of the losses were recovered when short covering brought on a minor rally just before the close.

Short covering in the rice pit followed Commission House absorption of offerings of the May contract from $1.16 1/2 to $1.16. Early weakness was attributed to reports of an easier cash market.

Wheat, after losing as much as a cent, steadied when local traders turned buyers.

The July had been weakest of the wheat contracts throughout the session.

Weakness of corn resulted from liberal country offerings. Cash handlers reported bids for to-arrive grain had been reduced from $1.13 to $1.12 1/2 during the morning.

Oats were about steady to slightly lower.

At the finish wheat was 1/2 to 3/4 lower than yesterday's close, May $1.16 1/2, corn was off 1/2 to 3/4, May $1.12 1/2. Oats were unchanged to 1/4 lower. May 68 1/2, Rye was 3/4 to 1/2 lower. May $1.16 1/2, 3/4. Barley was off 1/2 to 1, May $1.16.

COAL AND GRAIN MEN WILL MEET THURSDAY NIGHT

Indignant Dealers Call a Six County Meeting For Xenia

A meeting of coal, feed and grain dealers in a six-county area, including Fayette County, is scheduled for Thursday at 8 P. M. at the Court House in Xenia. Some of those planning to attend are indignant over methods of the OPA according to news reports from Xenia.

How many dealers from Fayette County will attend the meeting could not be ascertained, but indications are that the three branches of business will be represented.

Regarding the meeting in Xenia, the Xenia Gazette says in part:

"Dealers say the discussion will center on charges of violating OPA ceiling prices on coal, filed recently against 13 dealers, including three in Xenia and Greene County, and the practicability of the remaining in business."

"Other counties in the area include Montgomery, Warren, Clinton and Fayette. R. E. Crone, Osborn will preside."

"Surprise over the action taken by the OPA in filing the suits was expressed by local dealers named in the action who explained they had no formal advance or later notice from the OPA and they were unaware the suits had been filed until the matter was given wide newspaper publicity by the federal agency."

"One dealer explained coalmen had not been informed by OPA as to the manner in which to arrive at the ceiling prices. Forms on which to file price ceilings were issued but no instructions were given on the procedure to follow in filling them out, he said."

"The coal and fuel business supervision is handled entirely through the district office of the OPA in Cincinnati and the price panel of the local war price and rationing board has no jurisdiction in the matter."

MRS. HARRY WILSON CLAIMED BY DEATH

West Market Street Resident Dies of Heart Attack

Mrs. Elizabeth Simmons Wilson, 75, widow of Harry W. Wilson who passed away in June, 1915, died suddenly of a heart attack at her home, 221 West Market Street Wednesday night at 11:15 P.M.

Mrs. Wilson, who had resided in Washington C. H. for 30 years, apparently had been in her usual health until she suffered the heart attack.

Her husband was former B. & O. Railroad agent at Leesburg for 17 years and agent at Wilmington for three years before retiring.

Mrs. Wilson was a native of Highland County, and during her residence here was a constant attendant at Grace Methodist Church.

She is survived by one son and two daughters: Emil Wilson, assistant fire chief of the Washington C. H. fire department; Mrs. Jane Douds, at home; and Mrs. B. E. Arthur, of Wilmington. Also two grandchildren, Pfc. Samuel W. Douds, U. S. Army in

BISHOP READY IS INSTALLED IN COLUMBUS

Rev. Raphael D. Rodgers Attends Installation On Thursday

The Most Rev. Michael J. Ready was installed Thursday as the fifth bishop of the Columbus Diocese of the Catholic Church by the Most Rev. John T. McNicholas, archbishop of Cincinnati.

Rev. Raphael D. Rodgers, pastor of St. Colman's here, was in Columbus to attend the installation which took place eight days before the first anniversary of the death of the Most Rev. James J. Hartley, bishop of the diocese for 40 years.

Members of the church hierarchy from four states took part in the ceremony, marked by ancient ritual. A procession in which most of the clergy took part began at 10:15 A.M. at the episcopal residence adjoining St. Joseph's Cathedral.

The reading of the papal decree announcing Bishop Ready's selection to head the diocese varied slightly from the usual practice, since it was issued by the Most Rev. Amleto G. Cicognani, apostolic delegate and papal representative in the United States, instead of emanating directly from the Vatican.

A native of New Haven, Conn., Bishop Ready's family moved to Mansfield, O., in his youth. After graduating from St. Vincent's College, Latrobe, Pa., in 1915, he served in Cleveland and Painesville, O., as curate, teacher and assistant pastor.

He was named assistant general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in 1931. Three years later he was made a monsignor of the rank of papal chamberlain, and in 1937 was elevated to the rank of domestic prelate.

PFC. CHAS. SEYMOUR WOUNDED IN ACTION

Second Wound Comes on First Day of German Drive

Pfc. Charles R. Seymour, 412 Gibbs Avenue, has been wounded in action for the second time, his wife learned from a War Department telegram.

Pfc. Seymour was wounded December 16 in Germany and the wound was termed slight. He had been with the First Army and was believed to be wounded the first day the German counter-attack started.

He was seriously wounded in France July 5 and was in a hospital in England for six weeks. He sent the Purple Heart he received for that wound to his wife. Mrs. Seymour said she did not know to what extent he was wounded now.

Mrs. Goldie Stuckey, 809 John Street, has received word her son, Pvt. William Seymour is in Germany.

Ensign Hugh M. Rea has returned to Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, N. Y., having spent a 5 day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rea of near this city.

Francis E. Morgan, U. S. Navy, has been promoted from electrician's mate second class to electrician's mate first class, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Morgan have been informed.

Morgan enlisted two and one-half years ago and after graduating from service school at Miami University was sent with the navy to the Pacific where he participated on several invasions.

He returned recently to the U. S. and spent a 30 day leave with relatives and friends, returning with his wife to the west coast for reassignment to active duty with the fleet.

Morgan graduated from Washington high school and prior to enlisting was employed by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Wright of Jeffersonville have learned their son, J. Roger Wright has been promoted from corporal to sergeant at his station in Teheran, Iran where he has been stationed for over a year.

Wright's older brother, Howard, who is stationed in England with the administrative department of the air corps recently received a promotion from first lieutenant to captain. Flight Officer Elwood Pickens happened to be in the same building at the time of his promotion, and the two men who had attended school together in Jeffersonville, met for the first time since being overseas.

MUCH LIVESTOCK AWAITS MARKET SINCE BLIZZARD

Bad Condition of Highways Hampers Movement to Stockyards Here

Due to the extremely bad condition of many of the roads in Fayette County, some of which have been open barely enough to permit traffic for only a short time in the last three weeks, a great deal of livestock remains on farms that could not be reached by truck.

In some instances hogs and cattle that were ready for market two weeks ago did not reach market until this week, and in some places trucks have not yet ventured to obtain stock that awaits shipment.

In one instance two trucks started out to bring in cattle on an infrequented road, and it was 24 hours before the trucks, stalled in drifts, could return to the stockyards, with no livestock.

Movement of livestock by train has also been seriously hampered by the snow and cold.
